

Dickens Tobacconalia

From the very first beginnings of Series Ware production and up until the 1950's Royal Doulton produced quite a range of Tobacco related products. No other series would have as many tobacco related shapes as Dickens Ware, this range includes Cigarette boxes (both plain and musical), Bridge Sets, Tobacco Jars, Cigarette dispensers and of course ashtrays. In the first half of the twentieth century smoking was seen as quite chic, a huge percentage of the population did not just smoke, they revelled in it. I was a smoker in my youth; I was in hospital for a week in 1980 with two broken wrists which were in traction, not only did the nurses feed me, one of the sweet angels of mercy held the cigarette to my lips and flicking the ash for me. How quick the times have changed. The anti tobacco lobby has been extremely successful, and rightly so, now the full tide of public opinion has turned against imbibing the dreaded weed. How often are ashtray loaded on the net described as pin dishes when they obviously have cigarette rest. This really gets to me, smoking is an evil addiction that has killed millions, of that there is no doubt, but what is the point in rewriting history. This is political correctness gone crazy. If we change the past to suit today's principles, then the lesson that we have learnt at such a hideous cost will be lost. Now if you dare, be a touch courageous, and have a peak at my Royal Doulton Dickens Ware Tobacconalia page&hellip;&hellip;.

Royal Doulton Dickens Ware Tobacconalia Musical Cigarette Box - Shape 8293 Plays English Country Garden by Grangier Royal Doulton Dickens Ware Cigarette Box - production era 1931 to 1941 20 cm (8&rdquo;) by 9.5 cm (3.75&rdquo;) and it is 7.5 cm (3&rdquo;) tall Bridge Set - Shape 8148 Royal Doulton Mr Pickwick Bridge Set Both are D.5682 - production era 1932 to 1941 12.5 cm (5") by 9 cm (3.5") and it is 2.5 (1") tall These Bridge Sets originally came with four small ashtrays. These wee trays sit nicely in the bottom of the box and are so shaped they can be stacked. It is very rare to find these sets complete. Horror of horrors - I have seen vandals selling these sets on eBay as five individual lots. These sets are rare and a complete set is well worth a premium.
